University of Maine Student and Policeman Are Arrested

BANGOR, Me., Nov. 10.—Arthur M. Smith, a policeman of Orono, was held in the Municipal Court to-day on a charge of manslaughter for the killing of James Perkins in a quarrel over a dead deer at Pussaw Lake Sunday. Smith said the shooting was in self-defense, while he was trying to prevent Perkins and his brother Frank from spiriting away a deer said to have been shot by Smith's son Byron and Theodore Trot, of Pittston.

Trott, who is a freshman at the University of Maine, was held in the Municipal Court to-day on a charge of manslaughter for the killing of James Perkins in a quarrel over a

Burglars Near Enright Home

Burglars entered the homes of two of Police Commissioner Enright's neighbors before dawn yesterday. Commissioner Enright lives on St. Mark's Avenue, Brooklyn. The houses which were entered were those of Ralph W. Leonard, 1082 Park Place, and Benjamin F. Child, 1068 Park Place. At neither place did the intruders get much.

One Man Keeps Milk Price Up, Straus Asserts

Philanthropist Refuses To Be More Specific Than to Say Person Was Attending Inquiry in City Hall

Scores Dairymen's League

Witness Declares Independent Farmers Are Crowded Out; Methods Criticized

Nathan Straus, whose free milk stations are credited with having saved the lives of thousands of children, said yesterday at a meeting of the Fair Price Milk Committee in City Hall that "one man is standing between the public and a lower milk price."

Mr. Straus did not come to the session to testify. He told District Attorney Martin of The Bronx, a member of the committee, that he was merely an interested spectator. He took an active interest in the proceedings and seemed amused at the wrangling between a farmer, a distributor and a representative of the Dairymen's League.

At the close of the session Mr. Straus was asked if he cared to comment. "It would hardly help," he said. "There is one man—and he is in this room—who is standing between the public and a lower milk price. He is the cleverest milkman in the country. He has one of the smartest lawyers. As long as this combination exists the public will continue to be beaten."

Refuses To Be Specific
The philanthropist's eyes swept the room. They seemed to take in every body and rest on no one. He refused to be more specific, saying that the name would be known in due time. One in the room included Loton Horton, founder and president of the Dairymen's League, and president of the L. A. Campbell, president of the Clover Farms Company, and I. Elkin Nathan, secretary of the New York Milk Conference Board.

Neil H. Strone, of the New York Federation of Agriculture, was on the stand most of the afternoon. Mr. Strone was not scheduled to testify. He took the witness chair after he had objected to statements in the testimony of William Levy, secretary-treasurer of the Levy Dairy Company, of Second Avenue and Nineteenth Street. Mr. Levy, in recounting the costs of operation of his company, had said that although the milk price this month was ostensibly $3.25 a hundred pounds, approximately seven cents a quart, it was, in reality, nine cents, because of a premium paid on butter fat. Raw milk, delivered to his plants, costs about ten cents a quart. The milk is pasteurized and delivered to the city, at approximately 11 cents, the witness had testified. The Levy firm deals chiefly with groceries, selling dip milk for 12 cents and bottled for 16.

Mr. Strone challenged Mr. Levy's figures. He said no farmer received more than seven cents a quart. Milk, pasteurized and ready for delivery should not cost more than nine cents, he declared.

Blames Dairymen's League
The Dairymen's League was partially responsible for the excessive prices, he said.

"It is my firm conviction," the witness asserted, "that Roswell D. Cooper, president of the Dairymen's League, is working hand in hand with the dealers. The Dairymen's League receives one cent a hundred pounds for milk sold by members. This is deducted from the farmer's check and sent to the league. Why do they work so harmoniously in this?"

"Last January there was a big strike. It cost the farmers $10,000,000. It ended by the farmers obtaining their price for six days, while the distributors fixed the figure for sixty. The Dairymen's League gets between $100,000 and $200,000 a year from distributors. Independent farmers want to know how this remuneration is earned."

Mr. Strone charged that in June, 1918, he attempted, with other farmers from Orange County, to sell milk here, but was impeded by the officials of the Dairymen's League. He narrated in detail the failure of the farmers of the Country Milk Company, which, he said, had been organized apparently to sell at a lower price by eliminating the city distributors. Roswell D. Cooper, president of the league, also was president of the Country Milk Company, he said.

Opposition Ticket Blocked
"We attempted to launch an opposition ticket to Cooper's slate at the Dairymen's League convention in Jersey City this year. We met and talked over our plans and decided to have about 5,000 slips printed and distributed at the meeting. We paid a printer $5 on a $15 total cost, promising him the remainder when he delivered the slips at the convention hall. The slips never came. We had feared spies right along. We learned that some man had appeared at the printer shop and paid the printer the balance, taking the slips, which we never saw."

Strone wound up by saying that bottled milk could be distributed here at 13 cents a quart—with a profit. Mr. Nathan and Mr. Levy denied this. They also denied the truth of statements by Strone that "five men bossed the league's 77,000 members, 90 per cent of whom were dissatisfied."

Would Assist Farmers
Mark Du Bois, editor of "The Poughkeepsie Courier," a frequent witness at milk investigations, told the committee that milk production was falling off because farmers were not adequately compensated. The farmers should be allowed to bargain in their sale of milk, and not be forced to sell at an arbitrarily fixed price, he declared.

Health Commissioner Copeland, who presided, read a letter from the Milk Conference Board announcing that no plans for revising the present system of distribution would be submitted until the matter had been taken up with counsel. These plans had been informally promised at the previous session.

"I cannot conceive it possible," said Dr. Copeland, addressing Mr. Nathan, "that you are going to stand on technicalities before the public. We are going to find a way out of the present situation, whether you help or not. You have been accustomed to seeing these investigations given up with nothing done. But this is a different kind of investigation if I know anything of the members."

Ebert and Noske Accused of Too Lavish Spending

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—President Ebert and Gustav Noske, Minister of Defence, have been criticised for the expense bills they incurred during their recent stay at Darmstadt. The critics say that luncheons and dinners cost upward of $1,000, exclusive of wine, of which more than 200 bottles were consumed, and complain that $110 were spent on floral decorations.

Such items, say the critics, can scarcely be reconciled with the government's admonition to the public to account for every penny. They accuse the present government of keeping up "all the expense of the imperial regime and none of its dignity."

The Generous Soul Never Enjoys Its Possessions

as much as when others partake of them with him.

How good it was for many to open their picture galleries, big and little! Likewise their gardens and grounds! How thoughtful to send your friends a copy of a dollar and a half book, or even another, not so costly!

Really it is a great idea to learn by experience that one can double his own happiness by doing some little thing for his neighbor or friend or some lonely creature.

When people use our big store buildings for their music, their varieties of articles that form them into a kind of museum, their hospitalities—well, we are delighted!

This is Children's Book Week

Come to the Wanamaker Book Store, children, and see the special room prepared for you, where all the books you love most are displayed and arranged for your convenience.

We would be glad to have you visit this little room and pick up and look at all the books to your hearts' content. There are so many pretty pictures and wonderful stories.

Of course, Christmas is coming soon, and you will want Santa Claus to bring you some books. It will be nice, this week, to come and see all the new books together and decide which ones you want to get in your stocking Christmas day.

Read Over This List

Mother Goose

One of the most beautiful editions of Mother Goose you ever saw is arranged and edited by Eulalie Osgood Grover and illustrated by Frederick Richardson. It is so much more fun to read the verses when there are real good pictures to look at; $2.50.

Great big print and very beautiful pictures make the "Esoo for Children" (with pictures by Milo Winter) a fine book to own. It is full of fables or lessons, and, after all, it's much pleasanter to become wise from a book than to be told what to do by older people; $2.

The Bubble Books

Such merry little things, with phonograph records in them. One learns to sing the songs, read the verses and see the pictures, all at the same time; $1.

There are endless new fairy books, like "English Fairy Tales," retold by Flora Annie Steel; $2.50.

"The Book of the Elves and Fairies," by Frances Jenkins Olcott; $2.50.

Books girls like

"A Little Maid of Philadelphia," by Curtis; $1.25.
"Patty and Azalea," by Carolyn Wells; $1.25.
"Joan of Arc," by Richards; $1.50.

Many other equally good books.

Books boys like

"The Story of General Pershing," by Tomlinson; $1.50.
"The Boy's Life of Theodore Roosevelt," by Hermann Hagedorn; $1.50.
"The Boy Scout's Book of Stories," edited by E. E. Matthews; $2.

And endless others.

In this little section where the books are displayed there is a special arrangement whereby children can select what they want, the parent leave the orders and the books can be delivered now or later.

We hope all who have—or love—children will find the time to favor us with a visit.

Eighth Gallery, New Building.

Silver frames

There are round, oblong and oval frames, with frames and folding ones, the latter holding two or three pictures. Some are perfectly plain, others have engineered stripes or are hand-engraved, and the newest are plain nearest the picture with an outer hand-engraved border.

Prices from $3.75 to $51.

Main floor, Old Building.

"What shall I pay for my overcoat?"

Answered by this offer of—

330 Wanamaker Overcoats

Many of them fully silk-lined—(Chesterfields and ulsters—single and double-breasted—$65 to $75 grades—all at $54.50

There you have the important details of the story—the annual Stewart Week sale of men's overcoats. The words WANAMAKER OVERCOATS are inclusive of many important things—all-wool fabrics, good tailoring, good linings, all-around satisfaction. Naturally, our plans for Stewart Week are made a long time in advance; otherwise, a sale like this, so genuine in its savings, could not be brought about.

The Chesterfield overcoats are dark oxfords—fully silk-lined—with velvet collars... The single-breasted fancy overcoats are semi-fitted—very smart—with silk yoke lining... The double-breasted overcoats are big, roomy ulster types—always useful—varied in colorings—with silk yoke linings. YOUR coat will be here.

Learn the Cause of Decay

Dental science has now traced most tooth troubles to a film. To that slimy film which you can feel.

That is what discolors—not the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

The film is clinging. It enters crevices and stays. No ordinary tooth paste can dissolve it. A soapy tooth paste makes it more viscous.

So, despite your brushing, much film stays. Night and day it does its damage. It is the great tooth wrecker.

Science now has found a way to combat that film. The fact has been proved by many clinical tests. The method is now advocated by leading dentists everywhere.

For daily use it is embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. And we are mailing 10-Day Tubes so that every home may try it.

Do This and See

We urge you for your own sake to write for this 10-Day Tube. See the results for yourself.

Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to constantly combat it.

Pepsin must be activated, and science has discovered a harmless activating method. The usual method is an acid, harmful to the teeth, so pepsin long seemed impossible. Now everyone may apply it, morning, noon and night. And the evidence is that this invention brings a new dental era.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. See how teeth whiten as the fixed film disappears.

Compare results with the methods you use now. Then judge for yourself what is best. Cut out the coupon now.
